drugs & alcohol policy

The use of alcohol and other drugs (AOD) can have negative consequences. Far too often, high-risk drinking and other drug use can have tragic results. When this happens, students not only put themselves at risk, but there is potential to harm their loved ones, friends, and others in the University community. By being informed about the prevention efforts available on Southeastern's campus, students can make better informed decisions and increase the likelihood of avoiding risks associated with alcohol and other drug use.
